WELCOME

Welcome indeed to our sixth Trail. It all gets to happen through that good old collegial approach in Taranaki where our committee can tap in to support from volunteers, sponsors, patrons and local businesses. We are proud to say that the Taranaki Arts Trail received the TSB Chamber of Commerce Business Excellence Awards 2018 Highly Commended - Events and Attractions.

Eighty-four artists and just three days might seem a bit daunting, but help is at hand. A brochure/map may be picked up at information centres etc or posted on request. Our website www.taranakiartstrail.co.nz displays information about every artist and will sort by category and location. Our experienced coordinator Niki at taranakiartstrail@gmail.com is available for advice. Many artists are happy to open up at another time if their studio is busy or you are rushed. For an early look before the Trail opens, a work by every artist can be seen at Stratford's Percy Thomson Gallery.

We have a refreshingly broad range of artists using all manner of methods and materials. Some are well-known and some new and anxious, but every one of them has decided to host an open studio. Visitors will see some finished work and if they choose, can ask about artistic process, materials, aims, philosophy etc. Hopefully you will enjoy this marvellous chance to get inside a whole lot of little art factories.

Taranaki arts trail

ABOUT

Many people from Taranaki take off for education or jobs or adventures, artists among them. Some return to settle here and resume their art, but they have 'been away' and it shows. Artistic newcomers arrive and stir the mix. As a result the ways and means and colours of the big wide world have long influenced the portrayal of local things. On this Taranaki Arts Trail (there are images on our website) you can find fascinating photography and objects imaginatively rendered in glass or stone or wood, clay, fibre, metal etc, as well as many types of painting. In effect the Trail is run as though it were one big diffuse exhibition for the community, but more importantly, it is to have our artists able to talk to a lot of interested people.

Admission is free and the studios/workshops are open from 9.30am to 4.30pm on Saturday to Monday, the 8 - 10th of June 2019. To help plan your tour the Trail has been divided geographically to north, east, south and west regions. This brochure with an inserted foldout map shows the locations of all the artists as well as the partner galleries and hospitality venues. Preceding the open studios weekend, the Percy Thomson Gallery exhibition and Trail opening in Stratford will jumpstart the event. In getting about you might see that Taranaki has some spectacular scenery too.

Your key to the Trail show you where the studios are located.

Extended hours for the Trail
9.30 am - 4.30 pm

Percy Thomson Gallery is Stratford's thriving public art gallery and was opened in June 2002 following a bequest by former mayor and businessman Percy Thomson.

The gallery has developed and grown over the years, receiving national recognition as a thriving and diverse exhibition space. New exhibitions start every three to four weeks, and vary between national, local and regional artists – established and emerging.

The gallery has recently opened a boutique art shop, Percy's Place, featuring high quality work from local artists.

The Taranaki Arts Trail is extremely grateful for the continuing support of the Gallery. The annual exhibition of Trail artists work gives the Trail a huge boost and allows visitors a preview of the art of Taranaki.

The Taranaki Arts Trail exhibition is open from Friday May 24 at Percy Thomson Gallery. This is a wonderful opportunity for art enthusiasts to view the work of Trail members before putting together their list of 'must-sees', says Gallery Director Rhonda Bunyan.

Percy Thomson would be well pleased with the strongly-forged connections that continue to be built on between his home town, art, culture and heritage. Stratford District residents have benefited immensely from his generous legacy and delight in calling this gallery their own.

Puke Ariki's galleries give fascinating insights into Taranaki's history, culture and environment.

Hāpai: Celebrating Taranaki Artists Ongoing community project

Hāpai, meaning to 'uplift', 'elevate' or 'support', embodies Puke Ariki's vision of building strong relationships with community groups in our region.

This gallery space in the library foyer is a platform for local artists to be seen and recognised for their creativity.

We know Taranaki has one of the most vibrant and diverse arts scenes in New Zealand, so watch this space change as we celebrate different artists' achievements.

For more information about submitting work for our upcoming series (July to November 2019), please visit our website pukeariki.com or email images@npdc.govt.nz

Whare Kahurangi: 100 Years of Collecting 6 April 2019 – 6 October 2019

In August 1919 the Taranaki Museum opened its doors for the first time.

Whare Kahurangi celebrates 100 years of collecting our region's history, from the foundation gift of Māori taonga by William Henry Skinner through to the present day.

Meaning 'house of treasured possessions', Whare Kahurangi reflects both the precious objects on display and Puke Ariki as a place of community, education and wonder.

Featuring objects from across Puke Ariki's collections, this exhibition examines how we collect, what stories we tell, and what the museum might look like in another 100 years. Lift the lid on Puke Ariki's collections to reveal unexpected oddities and entertaining tales. Whare Kahurangi invites you to reflect on the past and imagine the future – this is an exhibition not to be missed!

Guided historical walks Available daily (with 24 hours' notice)

The stories of New Plymouth are all around us....you just have to know where to look!

Join us for a 90 minute historical walk where an experienced local guide will take you on a walk back in time through the central city area relating events, developments and anecdotes.

$15 per person (under 16s are free)

Walks are wheelchair accessible

Book by visiting us at the i-SITE or telephone us on 06-759 0897

After visiting the exhibitions, make sure you call in to the Puke Ariki Store.

Inspired by our collections, the store has something for everyone and every purchase you make helps fund our exhibitions, public programmes, research, conservation and education - now and into the future.
